

My name is Glyza Mae Magno, and I was born and raised in the Brgy. Ipil, Surigao City, Philippines. I am a student with a strong love for learning and exploring new experiences. Growing up, I have always valued my family, friends, and the moments that make life meaningful.

From my senior high school years to college, I have been involved in activities that allow me to grow both academically and personally. I enjoy spending time in nature, especially at the beach, which helps me feel calm and inspired. I also love sharing memorable moments with my classmates and friends, such as participating in school events.

I am curious, hardworking, and always eager to learn new skills. My life so far has been full of learning, challenges, and happy memories, and I strive to continue growing as a person while cherishing the people and experiences around me.

This autobiography reflects my journey, personal growth, and the things that are important to me, showing a part of who I am and who I hope to become in the future.
